MESSIAH BATTLE PRELUDE TO EVEN NIGHTER BATTLE

The whiplow out of the German salient at Messines appears in the light of later developments to be merely the prelude to a projected battle of a far mightier description after a German evacuation of a surprising feeble character. The British have resumed trench raids over a front reaching from north of Ypres to as far south as Ghysels, a distance of 7 miles as the crow flies but far more than that along the tortuous windings of a battle front. The official announcement of raids north of Ypres is of especial interest in view of the recent frequently reported heavy artillery fire on the Belgian front. Some weeks ago the Germans made a voluntary retirement from the front of the Belgian line, a fact little noted at the time in the pressure of greater events. From Ypres the Allied front curves sharply to the sea and an advance here would threaten the German hold on their great submarine base on the Belgian coast, Ostend and Zeebrugge.

In the meantime there are indications that General Sarraill is preparing to resume the offensive in Macedonia. The Bulgarian official announcement reporting a great increase in the violence of the allied artillery fire on this front. Considerable fighting has been going on in Macedonia for a month or more but the meagreness of the official reports and the surprising interest in events in France have combined to obscure the exact situation.

The Cossacks have again voiced their determination to support the provisional government and there are indications that they will receive strong backing from the peninsula. This cheering news comes on the heels of the publication of President Wilson's message to Russia which is hailed by the British press as not only a great state document but a powerful reinforcement to the men who are striving for law and order in the infant republic.

ITALIANS EXPLAIN THEIR OCCUPATION OF JANINA

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Occupation of Janina, northwest of the Albanian frontier, by Italian troops was a "military necessity," according to official dispatches received here today from the Italian government.

"It has become necessary for Italy to possess entire freedom of military action in this territory, largely because of the conflicting aims of the government of the Venetian party and King Constantine," the dispatch says.

The continual strife between these opposing forces has been going on so long that the people gladly welcome any change which assures them a period of peace and tranquillity, such as has been enjoyed by the people of Southern Albania since the occupation of that country by the Italian troops.

Six Prisoners Held for Abduction Plots, Safe in Jail.

By Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, June 11.—Conditions were practically normal here today after 36 hours of intense excitement due to the finding on Saturday of the body of 14-months old Lloyd Keet, kidnapped 10 days ago, and the announced intention of the populace to take the lives of six prisoners, one a woman, held in connection with various abduction plans unearthed here. The prisoners, now connected with the kidnapping of the Keet child, son of J. H. Keet, banker, that had so aroused the populace, today were thought to be safe in the jails of other counties, four—Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Adams, Maxie Adams and Sam McGinnis, at Stockton and the whereabouts of the remaining two—Claude Florio and Cistus Adams, unknown.

NO WEAKLINGS WILL BE ACCEPTED FOR NEW U. S. ARMY

Government Soon to Draft 1,500,000 or More From Conscriptible Eligibles.

Special to The Courier. WASHINGTON, June 11.—Within the next fortnight the government plans to begin drawing by lot the first named of the contingent of the young men who registered last Tuesday for the selective draft.

To obtain the necessary number of soldiers, estimated at from 600,000 to 700,000, it probably will be necessary to draw 2,500,000 names from the 10,000,000 registered.

As soon as the names are drawn in the various states the weeding out process will be undertaken by the local and district examination boards. The first elimination will be on physical grounds. Two men whose names are drawn by lot will be sent at once to the examining physicians, who will determine the physical fitness of the subjects for army service.

There will be no weaklings in the armies sent to France. The flower of the nation's youth from a physical viewpoint will be selected to fight the battle for democracy. It will be an army of athletes.

In determining physical fitness the examining physicians will observe the strict standards that have prevailed in the American army for many years. As a result of the enforcement of these physical regulations an average of only one in four applicants for enlistment in the regular army is accepted. It is estimated, however, that the young men who have registered for the selective draft will be of higher physical grade than those who have sought enlistment in the army hitherto and that less than 50 per cent will measure up to the required standard.

Home Guards Kill Two Idle Employees of Handkerchief Factory.

By Associated Press. SOUTH RIVER, N. J., June 11.—Two strikers were killed and ten wounded in a riot between idle employees of the Hermann Ankum Handkerchief factory, and guards protecting strike breakers brought here today.

The guards are alleged to have fired into several hundred strikers after the latter attacked with stones and bottles. Members of the South River home guards, organized as a war emergency force, were called out, armed and directed to prevent further trouble. The men killed or wounded were foreigners.

The strikebreakers took refuge in the factory which within half an hour after the shooting was surrounded by a mob. Four of the wounded were rushed to a New Brunswick hospital. The county sheriff on his arrival here ordered several guards arrested and taken to jail.

PLAN FOR RED CROSS FUND CAMPAIGN HERE NEXT WEEK

"We hope the people of Connellsville will rise to the occasion and aid themselves by the size of their contribution to the Red Cross War Fund," was the hope expressed today by F. E. Markell, chairman of the Red Cross campaign committee.

The main idea at the back of all the Red Cross plans, it was explained, is to stir the United States to a realization of debt and duty to raise $100,000,000 more rapidly than that amount was ever collected by voluntary subscription, to assemble the best trained talent that America possesses, to assemble the great stores of supplies and provide the ships, and then to start to Europe a stream of help that will never cease to flow. In this big program, Connellsville must do her part.

Preparations are already being made here for the Red Cross Week campaign next week. The financial committee will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Citizens' National bank building and any one interested is invited to attend this meeting.

It has been decided to open campaign headquarters in the Citizens' National bank building. Red Cross Week will open on next Sunday, with all the ministers preaching on the Red Cross. On Monday the campaign for money and members here will begin in earnest.

LIFE NO BED OF ROSES AT OAKMONT ENGINEERS' CAMP

All Connellsville Boys Pass Physical Examination; Drill All Day Long.

W. W. Edie of Connellsville, a corporal in Company C, U. S. R. Engineers, arrived here on Saturday, having been transferred to the reserve. After passing the physical examination, because of dependents. He may yet be called out if the time comes when men with dependents are needed.

"Life in camp at Oakmont is just one drill after another," he says, but "all the fellows like it and look forward with eagerness to active service in the near future. They do not know where they are to be sent. It was supposed they were to go to France to help build up roads and railways back of the front lines. They have been given drab uniforms have been distributed, which would indicate that they are to go to some colder climate, perhaps Russia. The cats are none too good, due to the fact that cooks assigned to the regiment are training at the government cooking schools. When they return the men expect better things.

All of the Connellsville men passed the physical examination. One copy of The Courier reaches camp and the local boys literally "read him in it." Arch McCormick, the irrepressible, is having the time of his life.

The Y. M. C. A. has a large tent with victrola and piano, free stationery, pens, ink and pencils. Military conditions are very strict. Visitors are allowed in the camp from 2 to 3 P. M. Sunday only. A pass beyond the line is hard to obtain. Each man generally gets a 24 hour pass once a week.

Bad feet is the principal cause for rejection of recruits. Heart trouble is next.

DOG AND GOAT FIGHT

Canine, Wounded by Goat's Owner, Runs to Doctor's Office.

Shot by Dominik Ranzio on Lime-stone hill, after a fight with Ranzio's goat, a valuable dog owned by Paul Vynarski ran, wounded, to the door of Dr. C. C. Truby's office on the West Side, where he lay down until the physician noticed him and bound up his wounds, according to stories told by Dr. C. C. Truby. A dog named Munk Saturday. Whether the dog will live or not is uncertain as yet.

Vynarski was driving past Ranzio's place, his dog following him, when Ranzio's goat, running at large, took a dislike to the dog and bucked him. The dog and the goat then began a fierce conflict, in which the goat was getting considerably the worst of it. Ranzio, it is alleged, ran into the house and got a gun, shooting the dog and ending the fight. Vynarski made information before Alderman Fred Munk charging Ranzio with malicious mischief. The defendant waived a hearing, however, and gave bail for court.

ANOTHER BREAKDOWN

Wheels On Wagon Hauling Big Boiler Again Give Way.

After moving one of the big 14-ton boilers for the new high school building about 200 feet from where the first breakdown occurred, John Duggan had to jack up the wagon a second time until three of the wheels could be strengthened. The big boiler has been loaded on one of the strongest wagons available but even on this the wheels have been giving way. The first time two front ones came off and now one from one and two rear wheels have collapsed.

The big boiler stood almost opposite the West Side fire station part of Saturday and all day Sunday. If the first few days of moving boilers is a sample of what Contractor Duggan will have to contend with it will be months before all three of them are taken to the high school building. His first trouble was when horses could not draw the wagon, but he overcame that by attaching his steam roller to it.

CONNELLVILLE BOY SCOUTS WILL SELL U. S. LIBERTY BONDS

To Deliver Literature and Application Form at Every Home in the City.

The Boy Scouts of Connellsville are to take part in the great nationwide campaign of the Boy Scouts of America, June 11, 12, 13 and 14, for subscriptions to the Liberty Bond issue. The scouts will deliver an appeal to every home on one of the last four days in which a bond may be purchased.

The folder explains how to apply for a bond. A day after he has delivered the message, the same scout will call for an answer. No money is to be paid to the scout, who merely delivers the application to the bank named by the purchaser, and the money is paid there.

To every scout who secures subscriptions from 10 or more different homes, a suitable war service emblem will be given. It is expected that the scouts of the country will visit 10,000,000 homes. This big undertaking is in response to a call from the government for help. The President's request follows:

The White House, Washington, May 19, 1917. My dear Mr. Livingston: It will be most gratifying to me as Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America to have the Boy Scouts, their scoutmasters and leaders throughout the United States lend their aid to the Secretary of the Treasury in distributing applications and securing popular subscription to the Liberty Loan. This will give every scout a wonderful opportunity to do his share for his country under the slogan "Every Scout to Save a Soldier."

I feel sure this request will find a unanimous and enthusiastic response from Boy Scouts everywhere. Sincerely yours, Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Colin H. Livingston, President of National Council, Boy Scouts of America, Washington, D. C.

SEVEN LOCAL BANKS JOIN IN CAMPAIGN FOR LIBERTY LOAN

Special Effort to Sell Bonds to Be Made During Next Few Days.

Connellsville's seven banks have joined in a campaign to make the Liberty loan a big success, and to make sure that this section buys its share of the bonds.

In a statement published today, and signed by cashiers and treasurers of the seven banks, attention is called to the need of subscriptions to the loan and of the safety of the investment. "Let's all pull together for the Liberty loan," the statement says.

The banks and trust companies, here, as all over the country, are boosting the buying of Liberty bonds to the limit. They make no charge for their service.

This is the final drive for the success of the loan. After Friday no subscriptions will be received. The loan is still greatly undersubscribed. Americans must come forth with their dollars now if it is to win the war, and Connellsville must do her part.

All the local bankers declare that, looking at the loan from an investment standpoint, it is the safest investment that one could make at present. Paying three and a half per cent interest, it is likely to be one of the few bonds that will not deteriorate in value during the war.

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, June 11.—James Johnson, known as "Pone" Johnson, a strapping mountaineer of Hopwood, was arraigned in criminal court today for the alleged murder of Albert F. Semans, a Hopwood storekeeper, on the night of last May 4. He pleaded "not guilty" and will be tried before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen.

Shortly after court opened this forenoon, Johnson was brought into court by Sheriff Thomas L. Howard. The accused man, a six footer, was rudely dressed in brown jeans and a black sazen shirt. He took his place at the defendant's counsel table with his attorneys, George Patterson and A. E. Jones. At the commonwealth's counsel table were District Attorney S. John Morrow and Attorney Leo Smith, who will conduct the trial for the state. County Detective John J. Smith and George Semans, of Pittsburg, brother of the late Albert F. Semans.

INSPIRING SERMON DELIVERED TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

Dr. H. H. Hitt, President of W. & J. Gives Wholesome Advice to Seniors.

AN INTERESTING SERVICE

Colonial Theatre is Crowded to Doors; Kiefer's Orchestra Plays; Choir and Men's Chorus Sings; Rev. Showers Presides; Class Play Next.

Commencement week opened last night with the annual class sermon; delivered to the graduating class of the high school by Dr. F. W. Hitt of Washington & Jefferson college, in the Colonial Theatre. None of the churches held evening services and people of all denominations worshipped at the Colonial. By 7:45, when the exercises began, every seat had been taken, and many people stood throughout the service.

Rev. J. S. Showers of the United Brethren Church, presided. The invocation was delivered by Rev. C. C. Buckner, pastor of the Christian Church. Rev. W. J. Eberhart of the United Presbyterian Church, read the scripture and Rev. G. L. C. Rich, arison of the Methodist Episcopal Church, made a prayer. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. L. Proudfoot of the First Presbyterian Church.

A choir under the direction of R. O. Clabaugh sang, as did a chorus of male voices. Kiefer's orchestra played the prelude. The congregational hymns were "America" and "Abide With Me." The graduates attended in a body, clad in their gray caps and gowns. The theatre, where four events of commencement week are held, has been attractively decorated with college and school banners and American flags.

Dr. Hitt took as his text the two words, "By Faith," which are repeated so often in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. It was strictly a sermon which he preached and not a discourse on national affairs or anything else.

Dr. Hitt declared that this was the age of faith. Notwithstanding that some declare a march of science has made it impossible for anyone to have true faith, the speaker said he believed that there was more belief than at any other time. America's entry into the world war was cited as proof of this.

"For have we not entered the war because we have faith in justice, faith in truth, faith in humanity—and what are these but faith in God?" Dr. Hitt asked. "Surely this is one of the greatest examples of faith."

He divided his talk into three general parts, endeavoring to prove three propositions: First, that faith is the dominant factor in intellectual life and thought; second, that faith is the supreme element in the building of character; third, that faith is the controlling factor in the shaping of our destiny.

In conclusion, he appealed to the graduates to live by faith, to work by faith, to have faith always.

The second event of commencement week will come tomorrow evening, when the Senior class, play, "Green Stockings," will be presented in the Colonial.

HOW TO GET RID OF CORNS

A Simple, Safe and Reliable Way.
No Pain or Soreness.

Thanks to a new discovery made from a Japanese product, women will soon be wearing smaller and prettier shoes than ever. Corns are to be a thing of the past. A new preparation called Iced-Mint is said to make any corn or callous shrivel right up and lift off easily. Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes can soon be lifted right out root and all. Iced-Mint is wonderful. So pain and not a bit of soreness while applying it or afterwards. People are warned to stop cutting and trimming their corns and avoid the risk of blood poisoning. Simply get a small jar of Iced-Mint from your druggist and from the very second that it touches the sore, tender corn your poor, ached aching feet will feel so cool, easy and comfortable that you will just sigh with relief. Think of it: just a little touch of that cooling, soothing Iced-Mint and real foot-joy is yours. It is the most secret of fine, healthy little feet, and is highly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and men who have to stand on their feet all day.—Adv.

NEED A FIERY EVANGEL.

What we must have now in the United States is a fiery evangel. The most fiery torch and light the fires on the hills tops. Village signals, village and town warnings blow. The days of sullen ease are over, says the Chicago Tribune. The world is in turmoil and we are a part of the world, dedicated to its fate and devoted to a certain cause.

We stand to make or make event, and it is better to stand the event than to accept it. With a will to win, we shall shape and not accept the outcome. Alan Seeger's spirit must be the spirit of America.

Spiritual mothers must know that their sons go out to take the one chance, as Seeger thought it, in ten, and in so going make conditions and prospects better for this American Republic.

There is no avoidance of the difficulty. It is upon us. We can have, now, only what we win, and we cannot think of accepting what another nation has imposed upon us.

Not having the will to accept defeat, to pay tribute, to meet a conqueror's terms, to hear the sound of his feet in our streets, and to accept the humiliation of his presence, we must have the will to win.

We must realize that this is a war of sacrifice for an end which must be attained. There cannot be a failure in it without a debasing humiliation, which would cause the children of another generation to wonder why they had to be born of such poor stock.

There can be nothing but victory in the prospect of the American eagle. It must be as strong when peace is declared as it is now, when war is being entered.

The Worst—In Russia.

From Philadelphia Ledger.

Few more practical, far-seeing men have been on the spot in Russia than Professor T. G. Masaryk, the great Bohemian patriot who has been long banished from his own fatherland for his insistence that it be given an independent existence. Knowing European nationalities and politics, as a past master, when he writes: "Alas, that so far as any possible Russian military offensive goes they should be prepared 'for the worst' he probably is nearer to the truth than any other correspondent whose matter has come out from behind the troubled and confused scenes at Petrograd.

Optimism as to the effective reorganization of the Russian army on any basis of rigid discipline that will yield military results of an aggressive character has been discounted by most competent observers, so while Professor Masaryk may prove a Cassandra, one who tells unpleasant truths that are not believed, at least he has done his duty by his frankness.

Moreover, in another telling stroke, speaking of the very natural weakness of the coalition revolutionary government, he paints the situation in a few lines when he says the "misalliances talk against each other" and "neither the masses nor the intellectuals understand as yet that democracy means work and discipline."

Professor Masaryk knows, of course, his America well, and he knows that here duty and discipline in military life and law and order in civil life with steadiness and orderly processes, are not incompatible with the greatest freedom of the individual, something the Russian newly arrived at self-government does not know as yet. While, therefore, we may hope for the best from our mission now in Russia and from the efforts of all the other allies to stabilize the new government and get the army in shape, it is best to indulge in no day dreams as to Russia as an effective power, either industrially or in a military sense, for the time being. Consequently, the honesty of such an unprejudiced observer as Professor Masaryk is worth much in a time when, with German agents swarming all over Russia, every effort is being made to separate her from her allies—and to make the supremacy of Germany by might a thing beyond dispute.

In This Sign Conquer.

From New York Sun.

Sixteen hundred years ago an enemy host threatened Gaul, precursor of modern France. The first Constantine, surnamed the Great, led his armies to the defense. Three times, he was victorious and it was in this campaign, as Eusebius and other historians record, that he saw in the sky a luminous cross, with the Greek words which have been rendered into English: "In This Sign, Conquer."

After 1,600 years there blazes in the heavens a cross as luminous as that which struck awe to the heart of Constantine the Great, flaming and red-red with the blood of millions who have died for freedom, red with the glow of the life wherein the liberty of the world is being forced.

The Red Cross must be the symbol in which America goes forth to conquer. All other forms of conquest we have renounced. Ours is the task not merely to supply millions of men and maintainance of foodstuffs, which

Are You Thinking of These Things?

From Manufacturers Record.
Are you studying from every angle the many and the mighty problems which face this nation and the world?

Do you grasp its full significance that to meet the war that for two years had been waged upon us by Germany's ruthless murder of American citizens we have been forced to defend ourselves in a contest upon which the life of this nation and human liberty will depend for centuries to come?

Do you realize that this war will probably mean a far greater struggle on our part than the combined struggle of the North and the South in the Civil War, armies which in number will exceed the combined armies of the Northern and the Southern forces, and an expenditure of money by the side of which the cost in money of the Civil War will seem small?

Has it been burned into your very soul that upon every man and woman in the nation rests a full measure of responsibility, and that in some capacity every one must bear his burden, or be a shikher or a slacker?

Some will offer their lives upon the altar of civilization and their nation's life.

Some will have to bend every possible energy in the production of foodstuffs and in the conservation of the food supply. Some will have to work with latent energy in the production of iron and steel, and all the other products which enter into the building of ships, the operation of railroads, the manufacture of munitions, and all other things that help to maintain a country and to strengthen its soldiers on the battle line.

America has been called to a sacrifice which may almost sledge humanity ere we have passed through the ordeal; but in sacrifice there will be found the opportunity of service to God and man never vouchsafed before to any other nation.

Alas, deeply recognizing these facts, it behooves every one of us to enter into this service with a spirit of self-sacrifice, of sacrifice to human liberty, to the production of American woman and children from the laborer, to lifting high the torch of human liberty that all the world may yet learn what civil and religious freedom and democracy in the broadest sense mean for human advancement.

Let us not dwell in morbid fear upon these problems. Rather let us individually and as a nation, appreciating the call of duty, throw into business activities, into food production and conservation, into all the things that make for national life, the utmost potentialities of the man and the woman and the material power of this Heaven-blessed land.

and the weapons of warfare; we must rebuild cities and hearten war-worn peoples, pour oil on their wounds and bind them up, kneel by the dying and receive from their lips the simple testament of the faith in which we are to rise, fight forward and finally rest on our arms victorious.

The hardness of our entry into the war must be the measure of our effort. Let us give our money without stint when the call comes. The Red Cross will shortly appeal to America for $100,000,000. There ought not to be an American who will not give something. A dollar from each of us would suffice. It must be more than that wherever possible.

To give money is so little! Can you shut your eyes upon the shining Red Cross?

Government Should Help.

From Greensburg Tribune.

It is really a wonder our great American government does not finance the Red Cross. Billions upon billions of money have been appropriated for the war. Much of it, of course, has gone to our allies in Europe, but millions upon millions are to be given to other ways for fighting the war. While it is going out the people's money like water a liberal amount of it should be filtered into the treasury of the most helpful organization in history.

Pennsylvania has already appropriated $2,000,000 for the year. A part of that money also should be used in buying necessary materials for the Red Cross.

The Red Cross will save and return to the ranks thousands of soldier boys who otherwise might be permanently disabled or actually die in the absence of the attention given by this merciful society.

The government accepts gladly the service of the Red Cross and the government should just as willingly lend the way in financing it. While it is going out the people's money like water a liberal amount of it should be filtered into the treasury of the most helpful organization in history.

Pennsylvania has already appropriated $2,000,000 for the year. A part of that money also should be used in buying necessary materials for the Red Cross.

Little "Yellow" in America. From Johnstown Leader.

Out in the "Show Me" country they have dug up a trick to dodge selective service that seems to be about the last word in un-Americanism.

In Kansas City some young men, married but without children, have proceeded to adopt babies to secure "dependents" in order to be able to claim exemption.

This shows possession of high imaginative power which ought to be put to better use. However, the thing that makes the matter really worth discussing is that out of some millions of men only four have been found who have resorted to such extreme methods to avoid the honor of serving Uncle Sam and the cause of democracy.

There is mighty little "yellow" in America.

The Nation in Bloom.

From Philadelphia Ledger.

The nation is in bloom, its blossoms of red, white and blue with khaki leaves.

A Mother's Faith.

By E. D. Gibbs, in New York Herald.

Wilhelm of Germany, we shall meet in God's good time at His Judgment seat!

Your hands will be dyed with a crimson stain. Your eyes will mirror a worldwide pain. The pale-faced writhings of each dead ship's crew. Who lie patiently waiting there for you. The souls of the mothers the sweet hearts, wives. Whose hearts you broke when you took them to live.

They will all be waiting to greet you when you are face to face with their murdered men.

Stripped of your power and all white. Standing at God's own great White Throne. Waiting for Judgment, as judged you will be. A judgment to last through eternity. With the ghosts of women and children, tortured and starved and slain by you.

What Would Anything be Worth? From New York Herald.

When you hear a German country carrier pulling out at sea, the German taking his son just ask him what his form would be worth if there weren't a million or so boys in khaki to stand between it and the Kaiser?

CAPS AND GOWNS FAIL TO ARRIVE FOR CLASS SERMON

Scottdale Graduates Attend Church in Ordinary Garb Sunday Night.

MORE FLAG DAY PLANS

Twelve Bands to be in Line and All of Them Will be Massed to Play "Star Spangled Banner" After Program at Park; Other News Notes.

Special to The Courier. SCOTTDALE, June 11.—The caps and gowns did not arrive as the graduating class of high school attended the baccalaureate sermon at the First Baptist church last evening without them. Rev. H. D. Allen, pastor of the church, spoke to them on "The Joy of Life," using as his text "The Jews Set Before Him" from Hebrews 12-2. There was a large audience present. Miss Lorea Atwood sang a very pleasing solo and the choir sang an anthem. Thirty-three members of the graduating class were present.

Flag Day Notes. The Tenth Regiment band has been secured to play on Flag Day. This makes 12 bands, with at least 275 musicians that will be present. A feature of the program at the park will be the massing of these bands under the leadership of J. Frank Hardy to play "The Star Spangled Banner."

Rev. C. L. E. Cartwright, a former Scottdale minister, will be the other speaker on the program in addition to Lieutenant Governor McClain. The reception committee, composed of J. P. Brennan, Dr. C. W. McKee, J. R. Byrne, Thomas J. Hill, W. F. Stauffer, James Keegan, J. E. Tinsman, Alvin Sherblin and Charles H. Loucks, along with Captain James S. Zundell and a squad of men, Captain Robert Morton of Connellsville and a squad of men will meet the lieutenant governor at Greensburg and escort him to Scottdale.

A delegation from Brownsville, along with a reception committee will wait on the lieutenant governor here and immediately after the program at the park he will leave for Brownsville to attend an evening celebration.

Meeting changed. The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church have changed the time of their meeting this week from Thursday afternoon to Tuesday afternoon on account of Flag Day.

Katertains Guild. Mrs. Titterton entertained the World Wide Guild of the Baptist church at her home on Friday night. Following the program refreshments were served.

Civic Club Meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the Civic club has been postponed from this evening until June 18 on account of the high school class day.

To Sell Liberty Bonds. Beginning today and continuing on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the local Boy Scouts will join the Boy Scouts of the whole United States in the sale of Liberty Bonds. This will be one of the first opportunities that the Boy Scouts will have to show the people just what they can do and what caliber they are made of. The work to be done calls for the distribution of printed matter furnished them by the United States treasury department explaining the bond issue and application blanks addressed to a local bank requesting the allotment of one or more of these bonds. The war emblem will be given to every scout who sells or is instrumental in selling 10 bonds.

One Per Cent on Original Selling Price Must be Paid by Owners.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Senate Finance committee Saturday adopted Senator La Follette's plan for a tax of 1% on the original selling price of automobiles to be paid by owners as the basis of a new schedule of taxation. The proposed tax on confederacy was abandoned.

The 1% tax on automobiles will raise much less revenue than estimated under the former plan adopted by the committee, from which about $16,000,000 was expected.

Reduction of 10% for each year up to 50% is provided.

"I Used to Think My Folks Were Crazy"

Here's a Happy Confession From a Neat-Cured Man Who Beat The Drink Habit.

I used to think my folks were crazy when they urged me to take the Neal Treatment. I said a happy graduate of the Neal Institute on the occasion of a recent call of appreciation at the beautiful home, "but now I realize that I was crazy and they were not."

"They say an honest confession is good for the soul and it was really good to see the face of the man who made this confession light up as he continued the life he is now enjoying with the old muddled days of drink enslavement."

"My health has been better, my eating powers greater, my mind clearer, and best of all I'm no longer a source of sorrow to those who love me," is the way this Neal graduate went on in his grateful outburst over the results of the Neal Treatment in this own particular case.

The Neal Treatment is a splendid investment for any drinker because it pays dividends in the shape of improved health, better appetite, restful nights and restored nerves.

The Neal Treatment is a physician's harmless vegetable remedy which is taken internally with no dangerous hypodermic injections. The results are tonic in effect and in three days all desire for liquor is changed to dislike for everything alcoholic.

There is no publicity. Names are never revealed. Your own investigation is not only invited but urged. Call in person or address for booklet, the Neal Institute, 375 Vineblide Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa. The Girl Who Had No God

AUTHOR OF "K" "THE MAN IN LOWER TEN" ETC.

"He will never marry me. And—how does know."

The fact that Ward knew the truth about Eleanor and the hand brought back to him their common path. He thrust aside, for the time at least, his passion and his despair; and calmly directed his energies toward preparing the house for the inevitable search.

So systematic had old Hillary been that there were few papers to destroy. Such of the ledgers as were incriminating he burned in the furnace. Eleanor's box of jewels he carried upstairs and placed on the library table. Such accretions as had remained from the country club raid, after the gems had been taken out, he melted together in old Hillary's crucible and placed the gold and platinum nugget in Eleanor's box.

He had set the safe to a simple combination and closed it. Except for its size, and for the protective wiring buried in its walls, it might have been a family safe, built by a nervous and elderly gentleman living in the country to hold his silver spoons.

It was too late by that time to bury the box as Boroday had suggested. Huff did the next best thing. He buried it carefully in Eleanor's garden, under a clump of crimson philox.

Eleanor worked hurriedly, but with hopeless eyes. Her preparations consisted in little more than putting on the clothing in which she meant to travel. In this new life on which she was entering she wanted little to remind her of the old. A letter to Henriette contained enough money to pay off the servants and the household accounts. In another envelope she folded the deed to the house and a note conveying it to Henriette.

"You can sell it," she wrote. "Good-by, dear Henriette. I shall never forget you, and if ever it is possible, be sure I shall see you again."

The time came, just before dawn, when she and Walter stood again face to face in the library.

Huff was going at once. It was not Boroday's plan that any of them should further incriminate Eleanor by accompanying her to the train. At a sound of steps on the stairs, Huff started.

"The nurse going down, probably for tea," she explained.

"He is getting better, isn't he?" "Yes, but he still suffers at times."

When the steps had died away, Eleanor slowly drew off her engagement ring, and held it out to him across the table. Although he was watching her, he made no move to take it, and she laid it down between them on the table.

"I don't think we need talk about it, Walter," she said simply. "There is nothing to say, is there?"

"I suppose not," he returned bitterly. He added: "If only you will try not to hate me, Eleanor."

"I do not hate you. But if he had died—"

Huff came swiftly around the table and taking both her hands in his, held them to his throat with a desperate gesture.

"If I didn't know that it would make you more unhappy," he said slowly, "I'd kill myself today."

"Falter?"

"I tell you now, it won't chance matters any, but perhaps it will change your memory of me. Ever since I've known you I've had one dream. You were to marry me and I was going to turn straight. I could have done it with your help. But now—"

He dropped her hands and turned away. Eleanor watched him wistfully. The one thing he wanted she could not give. There could be no compromise between them. It must be all or nothing, and she had given her all to someone else.

In the doorway he turned and looked back at her with haggard eyes. It was as if he were impressing on his memory every light and shadow of her face; every line of her straight young figure. Then he went out into the darkest hour of the night that precedes the dawn.

For the first time since his injury Ward's mind was quite clear. He had not been able to sleep, and the nurse had been reading to him. Strange reading, too, for the assistant rector of Saint Jude's. The books old Hillary had kept on his bedside still lay there.

Even the nurse, accustomed to many books for many men, was gently outraged.

Ward lay in his bed, his eyes half closed, listening intently. At last the nurse put down the book.

"Why, it's frightful, it's outrageous, it's blasphemous! Do you really think

I should read you any more of them?" Ward smiled feebly.

"If you are afraid of the effect on you."

"Not at all," said the nurse almost sharply, and picked up the book again. Ward lay back on his pillows and listened to the age-old arguments.

So it was on such literature as this that Eleanor had been reared! How fair a plant to have grown thus in the dark! And as the nurse droned on, Ward came to realize how natural and how inevitable had been her development. Reared in such soil, what might he himself not have become; and more than that, would he have been one-half so sweet, so tender, so good!

Toward dawn the nurse slept in her chair. Her cap had fallen a little crooked, and the beautiful head of sleep had touched under the small furrows between her eyes. Plain she was, but kindly and full of gentleness. Ward, lying awake, watched her. She was no longer very young. He thought of the children who should have clung to her broad, flat bosom and felt the touch of her tender hand.

Then, because, curiously enough, everything of gentleness and tenderness rekindled him of Eleanor, his thoughts swung round to her. He closed his eyes, and dreamed the dream that had been with him, subconsciously, all the night. To take her in his arms, and by teaching her love, teach her infantile love; by showing mercy and forgiveness and great tenderness, to lead her by these. His tribute, to the Christ—this was his dream.

And because it brought hope and healing and great peace, after a time he slept. Eleanor, standing alone in the house outside his door, took courage from his even breathing and ventured in. So light was his sleep that she dared not touch him. She knelt very quietly by the bed, and kissed the corner of his pillow.

Ward spent his Sabbath year in Oxford. He had thought to find peace by exchanging one form of activity for another, but with the less arduous duties of his work there he had more time to think. He found the old pain even greater; his restlessness grew on him. In the three years since Eleanor's flight he had done many things. He had left Woolingham for New York, and could feel his usefulness now only bounded by his strength.

But the old zest of life was gone. He was restless, heavier of spirit. There had been times when he had thought that he was forgetting, only to discover, through a very resemblance, with his heart pounding and his blood racing, that his forgetting was only the numbness of suffering.

Once, on the Strand in London, he came face to face with Boroday. Ward would never forget that meeting, its quick hope which died into the old ache at Boroday's words.

"I have not seen her," he said. "I am always looking. Perhaps she is wise, to break with us all. Still, we loved her. I have never married, and she was like my own child."

He had taken a clerkship in London, he said. While, of course, he did not say so, Ward read between his words that he was done with the old life for good. He held out his hand and the Russian took it.

"If I hear anything," Boroday said, "I'll let you know. Once or twice she wrote me; from Liverpool once, after she landed, and again from here. Then the police closed up the Dago's place, which was the only way she knew to reach me. I've never heard since."

"Then you think she may be in England?" Ward asked eagerly.

The Russian shrugged his shoulders. "Perhaps, if she is living. She was not strong. Sometimes I wonder—"

So, after all, Ward took an extra pang away with him from the chance meeting. What if, after all, his watching and waiting meant nothing? If she were gone, beyond earthly clinging? Death for him might be a beginning only, a door to eternity, but all the philosophy and hope of his faith did not fill his empty human arms. That night he walked the London streets until dawn.

He came back from Oxford at the end of his course there. Home was calling, and work, blessed work, that brings forgetfulness.

On the last Sunday before he sailed he attended service in Saint Paul's. He knew the church well. In those earlier days when philosophy had taken his young brain by storm and his faith had rocked, he had gone to Saint Paul's. Something in the very solidity of the old church, in its antiquity, in the nearness of those dead-and-gone great ones of the earth who had lived and died secure in his teachings, had steadied him.

And now, when it was his heart that failed, and not his soul, he went there. It was there that he found Eleanor. She was just in front of him, in the prim garb of an English army nurse. And it was no resemblance that roused his first interest. What he saw was only a slender girl, kneeling, and evidently in tears. She was very thin; he saw that, and her shoulders heaved convulsively. But as the service went on she grew quieter. When she rose from her knees at last, she was quite calm.

It was then that he knew her. Ward watched her with an ache in his throat. She looked frail, sad. Always in his mind he had pictured her in her summer garden, a flower herself among her flowers, or as she had looked that night in old Hillary's library, the night when, to save him, she had told him the shameful truth about herself. And now he found her here, wearing the garb of service, and on her knees!

So fearful was he of losing her that he stayed close as the congregation moved slowly out of the church. She did not intend to go; he saw that. She stepped out of the crowd and waited.

But as the service went on she grew quieter. When she rose from her knees at last, she was quite calm.

It was then that he knew her. Ward watched her with an ache in his throat. She looked frail, sad. Always in his mind he had pictured her in her summer garden, a flower herself among her flowers, or as she had looked that night in old Hillary's library, the night when, to save him, she had told him the shameful truth about herself. And now he found her here, wearing the garb of service, and on her knees!

So fearful was he of losing her that he stayed close as the congregation moved slowly out of the church. She did not intend to go; he saw that. She stepped out of the crowd and waited.

And now, when it was his heart that failed, and not his soul, he went there. It was there that he found Eleanor. She was just in front of him, in the prim garb of an English army nurse. And it was no resemblance that roused his first interest. What he saw was only a slender girl, kneeling, and evidently in tears. She was very thin; he saw that, and her shoulders heaved convulsively. But as the service went on she grew quieter. When she rose from her knees at last, she was quite calm.

Remarkable Success of Talented Physician in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases.

Offer Services Free of Charge. Dr. R. W. MacKenzie, Specialist, licensed by the State of Pennsylvania for the treatment of all diseases, including nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offers to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

Dr. MacKenzie is an expert in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful has been his results that in many cases it is hard to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, pneumonia, sciatica, tapeworm, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted with long-standing, deep seated chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physician, should not fail to call. According to his system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, piles, etc., as all cases accepted will be treated without operation.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see him at once. Have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable he will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit at this time may help you.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment may be, call. It costs you nothing. Remember, this free offer is for this visit only.—Adv.

THE PARAMOUNT.
"THE MILLIONAIRE'S DOUBLE"
—A five part Rolfe Metro production starring Lionel Barrymore and a two reel comedy "Villa of the Movies," are today's attractions. The story of the "Millionaire's Double" is a highly entertaining screen romance, in which Mr. Barrymore, who plays the leading role is called upon to impersonate a young millionaire, who disappears during the action of the story. Later he meets a crook, who notices a resemblance to the man that everyone supposes has been drowned, and is offered a chance to impersonate himself and gain possession of a part of his own fortune. The humor of the situation appeals to him and he enters into the scheme. And it is full of adventure, and rewards him by introducing him to the woman, who consents to become his wife. June Mathis is the author of the story and has kept the spirit of the theme from the first to the last reel. Mr. Barrymore's role is a congenial one, and he makes the character of the millionaire a high-spirited, fun-loving gentleman. Evelyn Brent is attractive as Constance Brent. Tomorrow, Marguerite Clark, one of the sweetest girls in motion pictures, will be featured in "The Valentine Girl," a charming photo play with five reels crammed with intensely interesting action and flavored with the spice of Miss Clark's own touches of humor and occasional pathos. Some of the sets of the picture are laid in a wealthy gambler's home where extravagant and expensive furniture and a host of trained servants fail to make "toms."

THE ARCADE.

A musical comedy company with three famous men in the leading roles, supported by a brilliant cast, is the extraordinary offering at the Arcade this week. Today and tomorrow, "Camping Girls' Musical Comedy" company will offer an amusing travesty on military life entitled, "Fun in a Camp," the music of which was written by the famous author-comedian, Frank Tinney. In the cast of "Fun in a Camp" is Murray Bernard, who until recently was in Mr. Tinney's show. Possibly equally as well known is Frank Dunne, a Hebrew comedian of the first rank. He is well known in Connellsville and has hosts of personal friends. Bert Saunders is a German comedian of nation-wide reputation, is also known in Connellsville. Taken altogether the company is one of extraordinary talent and it is expected the Arcade will continue to play to capacity. The company will be seen in "A Day at Saratoga," on Wednesday and Thursday, and in "A Night at Maxims" on Friday and Saturday. The matinees are very popular with the ladies and on Saturday afternoon 500 of them each received a copy of one of the leading moving picture magazines.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"A MAN AND THE WOMAN"—A five reel Art drama featuring Edith Hallor and Leslie Austin, also the 15th episode of "The Crimson Stain Mystery." Tomorrow Charlotte Walker in the five reel drama, "Mary Lawson's Secret." Also a Harry Myers comedy, "Police Protection." Wednesday William Fox presents a Western picture with a new theme, "The Blue Streak," featuring Violet Palmer and William Nigh.

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE EASIEST WAY"—For her fourth Selznick-Pictures production, Clara Kimball Young obtained the rights in recognized by theatrical authorities as the greatest work by any American playwright, "The Easiest Way," by Eugene Walter. This will be the offering at the Soisson for three days. Miss Young plays the part in which Frances Starr made her
